Leveraging Your Ntrinsx Report

Take time to review your Ntrinsx detailed report. Reflect on specifics for you (in your own words) using your report as a jumping off point. Next, discuss your answers below with your team, individually and as a group. Write on back if you need more room.

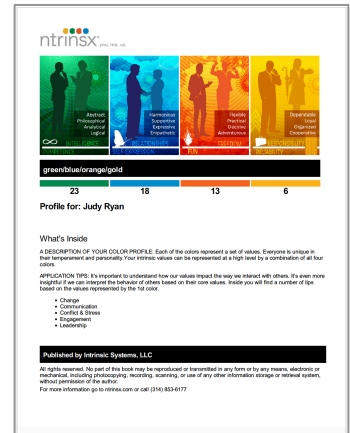

1. How do I like to communicate, and how do I like to be communicated with?

2. What behaviors and circumstances cause me stress, in general and on this team?

3. Which ideal workplace conditions matter most to me?

4. What kind of engagement do I most like?

5. What things do I dislike? (e.g., teasing, cussing, etc.)

Leveraging Your Ntrinsx Report (Continued)

6. How do I like to lead?

7. For what colors might I need to flex my listening style?

8. With whom might I need to modify my behavior and how will I?

9. What would be lost if there were no people with my first two colors?

10. What would be lost if there were no people with first two colors from mine?

Understanding Our Group

Take time to review your Group's Information (provided separately). Reflect on specifics for the group. Consider in your full spectrum pie chart and in your work pie chart. Next, discuss your answers to the questions below with your team, individually and as a group. Write on back if you need more room. We recommend that you make posters (one for each of these answers) with pictures cut from magazines or hand drawn, quotes, poems, words, thoughts or anything else creative to represent each one. Try to involve everyone. Display these in your workplace for all to see.

1. Our group's brightest color is: _____

2. Our greatest values are:

3. Our greatest needs are:

4. Our greatest strengths are:

5. Our greatest joys are:

Suggestion: Do a 2nd set of posters for work mode or full profile data.

Shedding Light on Shadows

Take time to review your Shedding Light on a Shadow Sheets for your first two colors. Circle the traits you see in the bright and shadow side of your colors. For each you circle, consider what primary value supported the bright or affected your shadow. Put an X by the top 3 bright side and shadow side characteristics. Check in with kind friends or co-workers to get their feedback on both in the event that you have some blind spots to consider.

Lighting Up Shadows

Below, write down some of the less desirable behaviors you exhibit. Then write down some alternative behaviors you can express through words and actions that will help you manifest your positive primary values.

My first least favorite behavior and the positive primary values I'm seeking:

Here's what I can say and do to manifest my positive, primary values:

My second least favorite behavior and the positive primary values I'm seeking:

Here's what I can say and do to manifest my positive, primary values:

The Ideal Workplace

Find others with the same first color as you. All four groups design the ideal workplace for their group. Feel free to design it in any way you want. Afterwards, each group will present the ideal workplace with all the color groups. Consider some of the following questions:

Where is your ideal workplace? What does it look like? What are some of its most noticeable aspects that support your brightest color?

In your ideal workplace, what are people doing? How do they behave?

In your ideal workplace, what is your ideal day?

Once everyone has presented their ideal workplace, blended color groups work together to design the blended ideal workplace, which incorporates elements from all four color groups' presentations. Someone should write down those elements and then the blended group will present the blended ideal workplace to everyone.

As you consider the ideal workplace for each color, what are elements we can begin to put into place right away?

Resolving Inner Conflict

Look at your inner conflict combo and consider where you have your greatest conflicts. These are often reflected in your relationships too. Below is an example of how you might consider this information regarding your inner conflicts.

For Green/Blue and Blue/Green: _____

- Independent Thinking/Nurturing
- Logic/Intuition
- Time Alone/Friendship
- Respect for Self/Compassion (for others)
- Personal Space/Affection
- Competency/Compassion
- Intellect/Spirituality
- Some Color Strengths to Brighten: Gold Practicality and Orange Sense of Humor

EXAMPLE: Sometimes I am a recluse and shy. I mainly get excited when sharing ideas about how to make the world better. I want to nurture friendships and I also like to spend time alone and with those who think deeply and have a clear purpose. I get so focused on seeing where things could improve, I often forget to show my heart and love for people as they are. Some may think I don't feel compassion or much emotion. That because I lead with analyzing. Sometimes I wish I could turn off my logical mind and relax more, nurturing myself and others. I tend to find unconventional ways to experience my spirituality, more privately than in community. My biggest conflict is pushing people for improvement when sometimes they either don't want to, or they just want nurturing or acceptance as they are. I can then overwhelm them with ideas and the speed in what I see is possible in my visions for them. My green definitely leads and when I slow down, I remember to show my blue heart, and to let go, to help people by accepting them first, by showing my affection, and relaxing. You?

Do I Choose Daily to Love Me as a Unique Person?

You don't have to be what other people want you to be. You don't have to be interesting or agreeable or entertaining. You don't have to tone yourself down, quiet your voice, or hide your feelings. You don't have to be outgoing or spontaneous or sociable. You don't have to be thin or beautiful or anyone's definition of attractive.

You don't have to be anyone other than who you authentically are, and you sure as hell don't have to spend your time and energy trying to convince people that you're worth keeping around. The right people are going to recognize your worth. They are going to respect you, appreciate you, and accept you, without forcing you to compromise who you are.

Life is too short and your happiness is far too important to make room for anyone who treats you otherwise.
